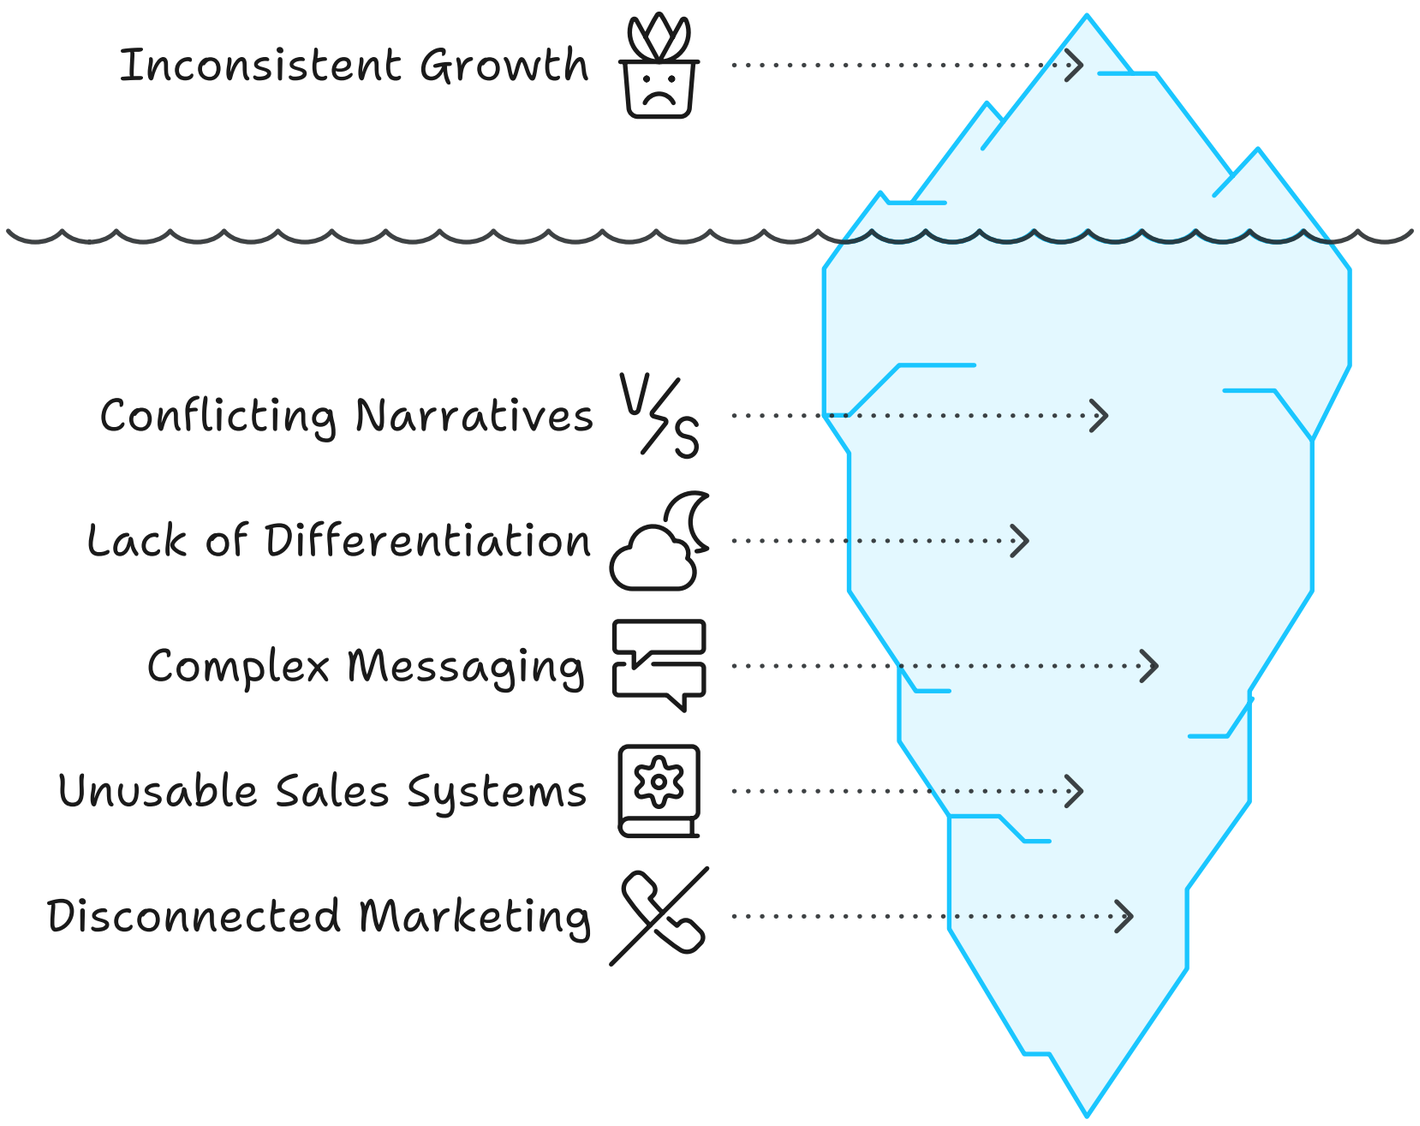
My Operating Lens

Inconsistent Marketing Narrative Hinders Growth.



My work involves:• Clarifying differentiation• Structuring messaging across channels• Enabling sales conversations• Driving growth initiatives• Ensuring consistency at scale

Things I worked on

01 — Repositioning a Global IT Consulting Firm

Linkfields Innovations

Led a strategic repositioning to elevate Linkfields from a generic IT services perception to a transformation-focused consulting partner.
Realigned messaging, rebuilt the website, and developed sales-aligned solution narratives to reflect global enterprise maturity.

Impact• 40% increase in website traffic• Higher-quality inbound from US & SA markets• Stronger sales enablement in enterprise conversations

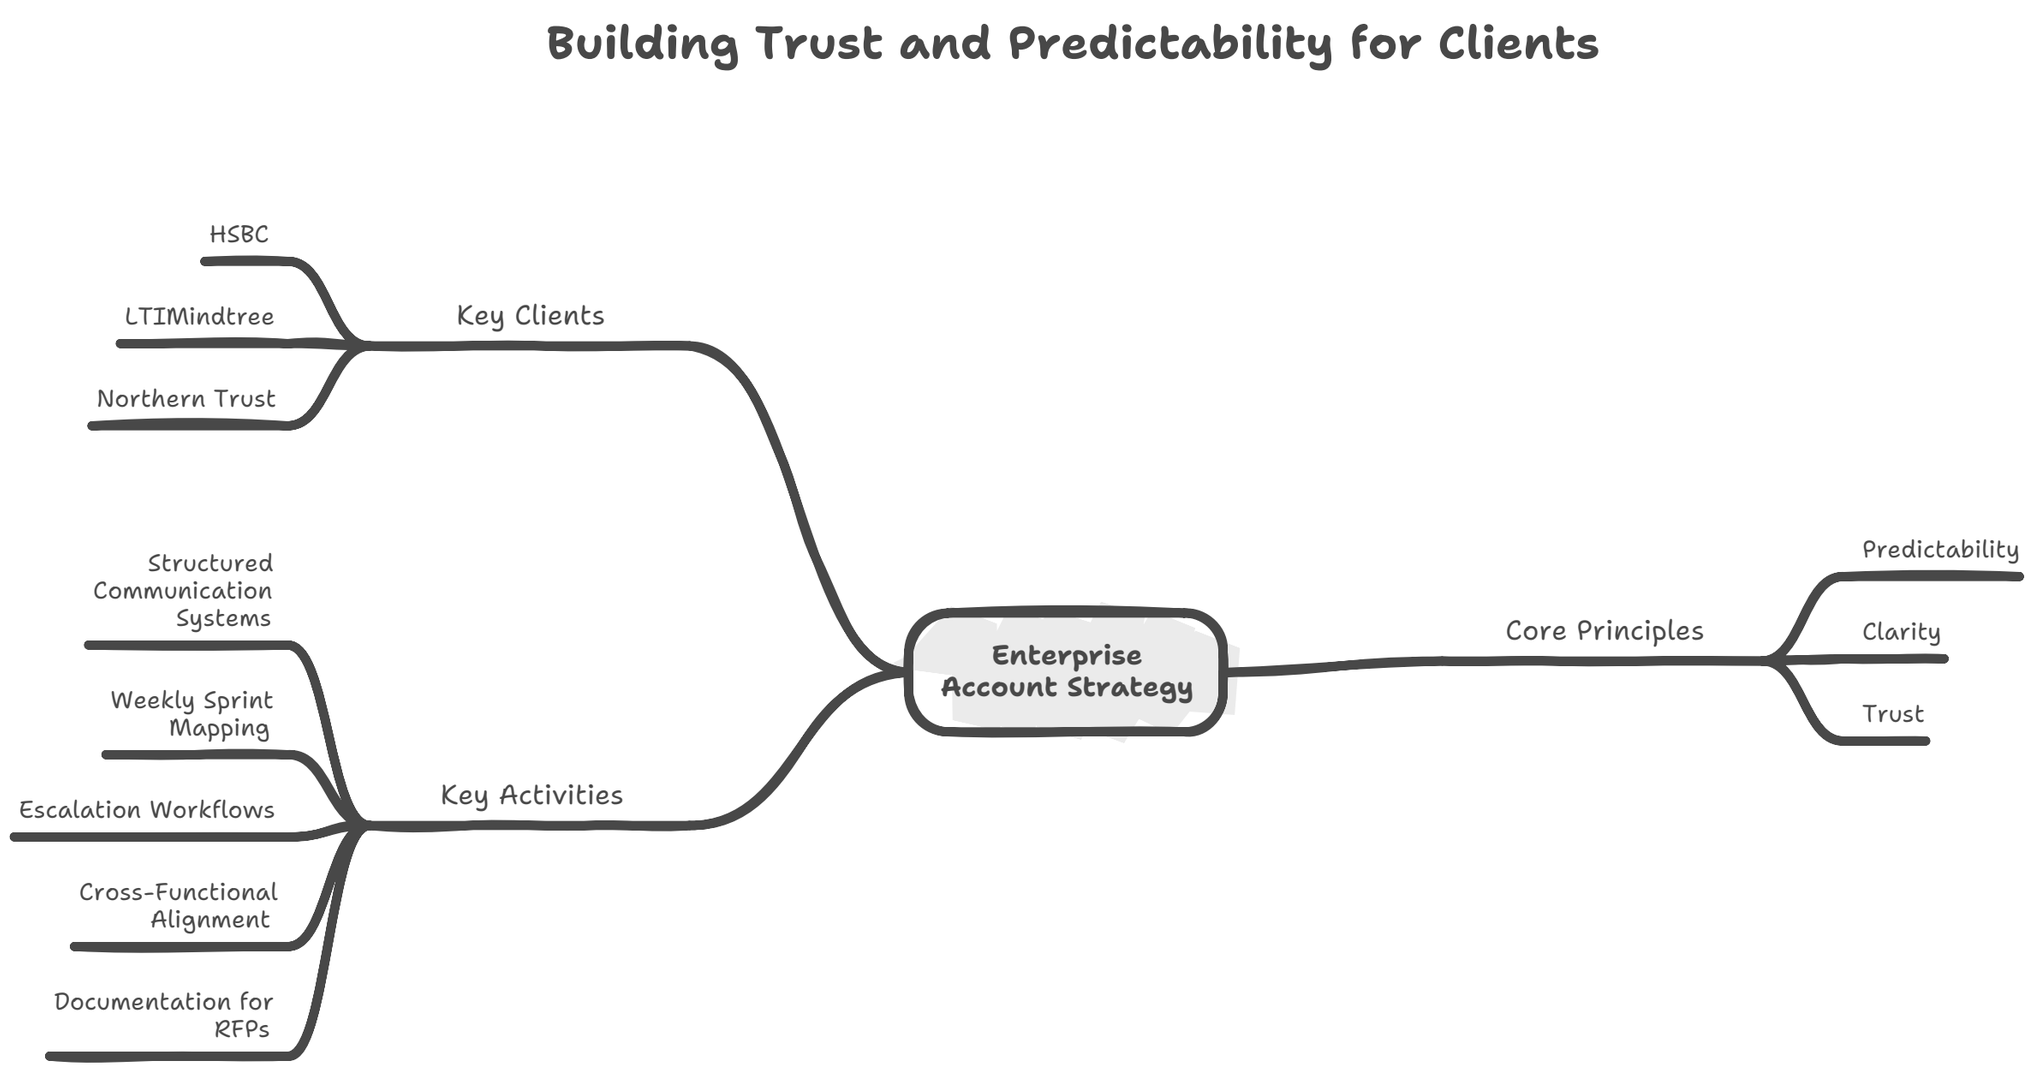
02 — Enterprise Account Strategy

HSBC | LTIMindtree | Northern Trust

Led end-to-end coordination across three enterprise accounts, aligning delivery, communication, and cross-functional execution.
Established structured sprint planning, escalation frameworks, and reporting systems to ensure operational discipline at scale.

Impact:• 80+ successful resource onboardings across enterprise projects• 100% on-time delivery across active engagements• Reduced client-side follow-ups through proactive reporting• Strengthened long-term account stability and expansion potential



03 — Building an Inbound Engine from Zero

Decorum | B2B SaaS

Designed and implemented a full-funnel inbound strategy for an early-stage SaaS brand, aligning content, positioning, and founder visibility with buyer intent.
Built structured TOFU–MOFU–BOFU flows, founder-led LinkedIn authority, customer-led case studies, and review-platform presence (G2, Capterra).
Impact:
• 2 B2B clients closed within 2 months directly via inbound• Established a repeatable lead generation framework• Reduced dependence on outbound-only growth

04 — Performance & Brand-Led Growth

> Earthful | D2C

Led performance marketing strategy across Meta Ads, influencer campaigns, and YouTube content, balancing creative experimentation with CAC discipline.
Focused on conversion-led storytelling rather than vanity engagement metrics.
Impact:
• Improved creative-performance alignment• Optimized campaigns for stronger ROAS• Built influencer messaging frameworks tied to revenue, not reach

Most of what I believe about marketing came from sitting in sales calls, fixing decks, rebranding, and hearing the same question from clients in different ways.

My working Philosophy

What should marketing do?

It should make messaging clear
why this company exists, who it is for,
and why it's better than the alternatives.

Clear how?

Clear enough that sales doesn't struggle to explain it.
Clear enough that the right customers feel seen.
Clear enough that the wrong customers opt out

What about creativity? Trends? Virality?

They matter, but only when they reinforce strategy.

If a campaign makes us memorable
but not preferred,
it has failed.

Where does strategy come in?

Before the campaign.
Before the content calendar.
Before the redesign.

Strategy decides what we should not say.

So what's my filter when making decisions?

Does this make our differentiation obvious within 10 seconds?

Does this give sales a stronger argument in live conversations?

Does this remove at least one recurring objection?
